LETTERS

OUR ASTRONOMICAL AND POLITICAL EDITORS GET THEIR SIGNALS MIXED

Mr. Harry R. Burt, Publisher,
Richmond Progress, Richmond.
My dear Mr. Burt:

In the issue of your paper dated February 28th, I read with considerable interest of the generosity of Governor Merriam in regards to the S. P. Ferry deal or steal, take it either way, and it will fit. However, your own liberalism with the figures, in your story, outdoes the Governor by a long way; for in one paragraph of your article you boost the price to three hundred and seventy-five millions and a little later you tilt this already considerable amount to three billions seven hundred and fifty millions!

Now if the entire Ferry fleet was gold-plated with chromium trimmings that would still be too much money. Don't you think so, Mr. Editor? Or perhaps you have in mind a fleet of convertible battleships.

I think you need a first class assistant editor and proof-reader. So I hereby make application for the post at a starting salary of, say, $50.00 per week. I know you won't mind a little item like that. If this should appeal to you please advise

HENRY GATTEL
434 Macdonald Avenue.

(ED.—Our apologies to Reader Gattel, all other subscribers, for the very embarrassing display of celestial amounts in our article on the proposed SP steal. It is, alas, true that only once in three attempts did we print the correct amount of $3,750,000. Regretable as it is, it is only fair to state that our objection is qualitative rather than quantitative, and we consider any price at all for the SP franchise—$3,750 or even $3,75—as a needless waste of the taxpayer's money, even if we got the boats which we don't. All we would get would be the FRANCHISE!

We say: let the SP keep their franchise and continue to run the ferries as long as they want to, at any fare they want. The public can decide whether or not we want to ride on them. At least, the ferryboatmen will then be employed.

As for your astounding offer to work as assistant editor for $50.00 a week, Henry, we are simply overwhelmed. If the Progress ever gets that much money together at one time, we would feel like high-toning Hearst or Lord Northcliffe or Time or the Chicago Tribune. Good or bad, one thing is sure, the PROGRESS is not beset with the care of handling such huge sums of money as $50.00 per week. However, thanks for the call—down.

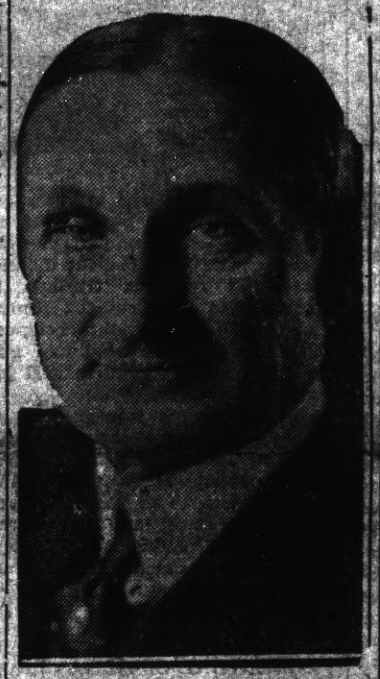
IT LOOKS AS IF IT MIGHT BE MURPHY FOR GOVERNOR

Most important question in the minds of California Democrats today is: Who will win the Democratic nomination for Governor?

All thinking members of the patry are of the opinion that there is no question about the re-nomination and re-election of Hon William Gibbs McAdoo to be United States Senator. Support for Senator McAdoo while perhaps not unanimous, will be very nearly so.



SENATOR WM. G. McADOO
Whose Nomination and Re-election to the United States Senate is practically conceded.

Consequently, all eyes are turned towards the gubernatorial situation. To date six candidates have signified their intention to run for the Governor's chair:—Senator Culbert Olson, Congressman John Dockweiler, Chairman of the Board of Los Angeles County Supervisors Herbert C. Legg, the former-U. S. Comptroller J. F. T. O'Connor, Colonel William Neblett, who are both former law partners of Senator McAdoo—all from Los Angeles.

From Northern California, so far, has appeared only one contender—Sheriff Dan C. Murphy of San Francisco. This week Congressman Frank Buck made it clear that he does not intend to run for governor, and this apparently, leaves the field clear for Sheriff Murphy.

Olson Strong to Start

Personally, we have felt that perhaps Senator Olson, singly, had perhaps the greatest strength because of his close association with the Epic movement of four years ago; and it must not be overlooked that Upton Sinclair, the then Democratic candidate, while defeated, polled over 900,000 votes. Naturally, no one imagines that all of those 900,000 votes are for Senator Olson at this writing because not all the votes for Mr. Sinclair could be considered as pure Epic votes, as distinguished from those of us who voted for Mr. Sinclair as the Democratic standard-bearer.

And it is only too true that many of the Democrats who should have been on our side were Merriam-Democrats and voted Republican.

Factors in Olson Race

Singly considered, Senator Olson, is hypothetically considered to be the strongest at the outset of the campaign. Only two major factors have occured to set back his race: 1) Governor Merriam has made it known he wants Senator Olson as his opponent in the finals—and many of Olson's friends, who are good and true Democrats as well, are fearful that the flood-gates of currency may be again opened, and our standard-bearer—if Olson—would be subjected to another such scourge as happened to Sinclair four years ago. 2) Every effort seems to be made to place Senator Olson's candidacy on an oil basis. It has been asserted that Senator Olson once represented the Julian oil interests—which is unfair, even if true, for no lawyer can be censored for representing his client, whoever he may be. But, if the enemies of Olson are able to put his campaign on the basis of his representing the independent oil companies while Governor Merriam takes up the cudgels for the major oil companies, it will hurt Senator Olson's campaign a great deal. For there are so many more important problems of government involved that people are not going to be greatly stirred about taking sides in a petroleum deal.

Dockweiler has Organization

Considering the other candidates from the south, Congressman Dockweiler seems to have gotten a slight edge in the organization work to date. It is true that the Dockweiler name is practically a tradition in California democratic circles many of us must be shown as to the Congressman's weight outside of his own district, from which, incidentally, he does not seem to have much trouble to get re-lested.

That leaves for consideration L. A. Board Chairman Herbert C. Legg, O'Connor and Neblett.

O'Connor and Neblett

Of the last two—both of whom have been, but are not now, former law partners of Senator McAdoo—Mr. O'Connor, unquestionably will receive the personal backing of James Roosevelt, but it is thought that the White House will go no farther because Mr. O'Connor's first claim for consideration is based upon the splendid record he made in the northwest and many feel that California's governor should be elected on the basis of what he has done for the Golden Bear State. (However, this must not be taken too literally for it would appear that our present Governor Merriam has occasional lapses such as the time at last year's state fair when he referred to himself as "Iowa's" governor. And I guess Republican Candidate Hatfield will let him forget about that. Oh, yeah?)

Then there is Colonel William Neblett, a very strong personality but whose vote-record is not sufficient to guess his potential strength as a gubernatorial candidate.

This leaves, Herbert Legg, in the south; Sheriff Murphy in the north. And within the past week a sizeable balloon has been sent up with a view of uniting the strength of these two candidates on a Murphy-Legg or Legg-Murphy set-up, wherein one would run for governor and one for lieutenant governor.

Murphy to Carry S. F.

No student of California politics can but admit that Sheriff Murphy will carry his native city of San Francisco if he runs for governor. His overwhelming victory in the sheriff's race shows that. And, at the present writing, Sheriff Murphy's San Francisco block of votes is about the only definite thing in the campaign.

This advantage should extend throughout Northern California as it doubtless will if Congressman Buck lends a hand as it is likely he may.

Frankly, we don't know as much as we would like to about Sheriff Murphy. We know that he is a quiet-spoken gentleman, native San Franciscan, graduate of the University of California, I believe, and has served in the state legislature. Like James A. Farley he is an abstainer, not a prohibitionist. He has carried a card in, I think, the teamster's union practically all his life and is one of the big figures in labor circles in the state.

Legg Compliments Murphy

A natural complimentary to Sheriff Murphy in the south is Herbert C. Legg. A native of New York state, he, like Senator Olson, came to California immediately from the state of Utah. He was overwhelmingly elected to the office of supervisor of the First District of Los Angeles County, and was named Chairman of the Board of Supervisors which is a considerable political feat for the first time running.

In 1936 he directed the highly successful campaign in Southern California of President Roosevelt. As Vice Chairman of the Democratic State Central Committee he is the second highest ranking official of the party in the state. He is a member of the Elks, Masons, Moose, and Johnathan Club.

So while of course ALL the Democratic candidates are men of high calibre, our judgement is that a Murphy-Legg combination is very probable. In which case, it would seem to be the suitable move to make the California-born man, the standard-bearer for governor.. So—

"It looks as if it might be Murphy for Governor."

Proceedings of the Democratic County Central Committee

At long last it begins to look as if the wierd actions of the Contra Costa County Democratic Central Committee are about to be explained in a curious sort of a way.

Several months ago when our county committee kicked the editor of this journal—Harry R. Burt—unceremoniusly out of the chairmanship, the Republican newspapers, including the Los Angeles Times and Oakland Tribune howled with glee at the possibility of Democratic disharmony in this county.

Relegated to the sidelines I watched the new Chairman Mullahy antagonize 90 per cent of the voters of Port Costa by the way the appointment of the new postmastership was handled; but never in the world would I have believed that the majority—By Grace of Appointment, not by Election—would tell U. S. Senator McAdoo that County Secretary Garavenia was too big to answer a confidential letter from Senator in which he was asked to get in touch with the State Democratic Chairman!

(Can you beat that—with the betting odds 2-to-1 that Senator McAdoo will carry Contra Costa County!)

Anyway, Chairman Mike opened the meeting at 8:15 and the Demands Colonies, Threatens Czechs and Says Germany Doesn't Fear War . . . Anthony Eden Resigns

Hitler Defies the World

POLITICAL turmoil spread over Europe after Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler, in an address to the reichstag, declared his intention to make Germany one of the most powerful nations in the world, gave warning that it was re-arming and did not fear war though it desired peace, and demanded the return of Germany's lost colonies. Furthermore, Hitler upheld the aggressive actions of Italy and Japan, and asserted that Germany would not tolerate ultimate victory of the loyalist faction in Spain over Franco's rebel forces.

Adolf Hitler

The fuehrer told with gratification of his success in compelling Chancellor Schuschnigg to give the Austrian Nazis representation in his cabinet and to permit them to act as a political party. He gave no assurance that the independence of Austria would be preserved. He openly threatened similar action against Czechoslovakia unless the Germans in that country were granted "political liberty."

Hitler's speech might be summarized as a declaration that Germany will ignore Great Britain, France and other western powers in carrying out her international policies, will continue her efforts to destroy the last vestiges of the general settlements which followed the World war; will insist that the "have not" nations must be restored to a basis of equality with the "have" powers, and is prepared to defy any combination of powers which may be formed against her.

Here are some of the other things Hitler told the reichstag:

Germany refuses to accept "credits or other promises" in substitution for the colonies taken from her by the treaty of Versailles.

Reports of dissension between the Nazi hierarchy and the Reichswehr are "nonsense" and in his new role as supreme commander of the Reich's armed forces he has decided to "strengthen the army to prevent the menace of war."

Germany's relations with Great Britain can not be improved so long as British statesmen and newspapers attempt to meddle with what the Reich regards as its own internal affairs.

Germany has no intention of returning to the League of Nations.

French Worried

PREMIER CHAUTEMPS and other high French officials saw, in Hitler's words concerning German minorities in other lands a definite threat against Czechoslovakia, a military ally of France, whose security the French are bound to defend. There are about 3,000,000 Germans in that country.

From Prague, the Czech capital, came word that Czechoslovakia would not even negotiate with Germany regarding autonomy for those Germans and would not yield to coercion as did Austria. Officials said that if negotiations are Hitler's aim, they would be regarded as "infringement of Czechoslovakia's sovereignty, and therefore not acceptable."

As for the prospective British-Italian agreement, the French government was fearful that Chamberlain's overtures to Mussolini would take a course that France could not follow without risk of alienating its own Socialist and Communist elements. The government, however, was determined to keep unbroken its close relations with Britain.

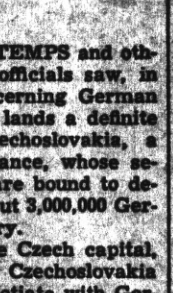
Halifax Succeeds Eden

REFUSING to go along with Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain in his plans to "buy" a friendly settlement with Germany and Italy, Capt. Anthony Eden, British foreign secretary who has fought the ambitions of European dictators for two years, resigned from the cabinet. With him went Viscount Cranborn, the principal foreign undersecretary. Viscount Halifax was appointed to succeed Eden temporarily. This change was in effect another triumph for Hitler, was especially regretted by France, and threatened to precipitate a serious crisis for the British government.



Lord Halifax

Viscount Halifax, lord president of the council and former viceroy of India, is a personal friend of Hitler and an insistent advocate of immediate friendship with Germany and Italy, even at the cost of great concessions by Britain. He was sent to Berlin not long ago to talk over matters with the Nazi leaders.

Eden told the house of commons that he had resigned rather than deal with Italy in the face of Premier Mussolini's "vile, hostile propaganda" against Britain and Il Duce's "glorification" of victories in Spain.

Chamberlain boldly told the house of commons that his government would begin negotiations with Italy at once in hopes of obtaining a friendly settlement. He put forward a four-power peace plan designed to eliminate the dangers of war in Europe. As members of the pact, he advocated Germany, Italy, France, and Britain.

Chamberlain went to Buckingham palace and gave King George his account of the events leading up to Eden's resignation, and then summoned Dino Grandi, Italian ambassador, to a conference. With them were Halifax and Sir Alexander Cadogan, permanent undersecretary for foreign affairs. It was learned that the break between Chamberlain and Eden came to a climax a few days before when Grandi and the prime minister had a conference concerning the basis on which negotiations might be opened for a general understanding between London and Rome. Some British leaders feel that agreement with Mussolini for Mediterranean security would give Britain a stronger hand in dealing with Germany on the question of colonies.

Wallace Gets Busy

SECRETARY OF AGRICULTURE WALLACE is losing no time in putting into effect the new farm law which gives him increased powers over production. He announced the 1938 marketing quotas for cotton and two types of tobacco to start with. The national cotton acreage allotment was set at approximately 26,300,000, compared with last year's planted acreage of 34,383,000. The flue cured tobacco quota was fixed at 704,000,000 pounds, compared with the 1937 production of 850,000,000 pounds. The quota for dark tobacco was set at 145,000,000 pounds.

Sec. Wallace

These quotas will remain in effect through the marketing year, subject to approval by two-thirds of the affected producers. Referenda among the producers are scheduled for March 12.

Cotton acreage allotments will be apportioned among individual farmers by local committees of producers.

For Price Increases

BEFORE going to Hyde Park for a short vacation, President Roosevelt announced two moves designed to restore prosperity. He declared the administration's economic policies are being directed toward a limited increase in prices, to be achieved without inflation or any substantial increase in the cost of living.

He ordered the Reconstruction Finance corporation to renew its lending to industry and the railways.

The President specifically mentioned farm prices as needing to be increased. On the other hand, he said certain other prices, such as those in the building industry, have remained at a high level for the last few years.

No specific monetary action is contemplated to increase those considered too low, he added.

Kennedy Now Ambassador

JOSEPH P. KENNEDY took the oath as ambassador to Great Britain in the office of President Roosevelt and will soon leave for his new post. He resigned as chairman and member of the maritime commission and Mr. Roosevelt appointed as new head of that body Rear Admiral Emory S. Land of Colorado, retired chief of the navy's bureau of construction, who has been a member of the board since last April. To fill out Kennedy's term the President selected Max O'Rell Truitt of St. Louis, who has been the commission's counsel.

Mr. Kennedy apparently lost out in his squabble with Secretary of Labor Perkins concerning legislation to curb labor disorders in the American merchant marine. Both of them appealed to the President but that gentleman did not indicate his stand on the pending bill which Kennedy favored and Madame Perkins and the C. I. O. opposed.

Rumania Goes Fascist

RUMANIA is now a Fascist corporative state of guilds patterned after Italy. This was settled when King Carol proclaimed the new constitution, which provides for a parliament composed of guilds of farmers, workers and intellectuals. Both the chamber of deputies and the senate are reduced in size and election of members is to be by trades and professions, not by political parties. The king will appoint half the senators and will have veto power over all legislation. All Rumanians are declared equal, with radical distinctions, and religious freedom is granted with the Orthodox Rumanian church as the state religion. Trials by jury are abolished and the death penalty reintroduced for certain crimes.

King Carol

The constitution was created by Rumania's powerful crown council, a special body established by King Carol to define general policies and chart the course of parliamentary measures. Carol and Dr. Miron Cristea, head of the nation's latest cabinet, collaborated in drawing up the constitution.

Ortiz Inaugurated

ROBERTO O. ORTIZ was inaugurated president of Argentina for a six-year term, and pledged himself to maintain democracy. In a speech to the congress he said: "As a candidate I ratified my faith in democracy. That implied a solemn promise to respect liberty and guarantees of the constitution."

He went on to say that only a strong people can maintain peace and justice under present world conditions. Therefore, he added, development and perfection of armed institutions and moral reserve of the nation would be his special preoccupation.

Rescued from Ice Floe

FOUR Russian scientists, who spent nine months at an observation post near the North pole, were rescued, with their records and equipment from their ice floe that was drifting along the east coast of Greenland. This ice raft had carried them more than a thousand miles and was reached with difficulty by icebreaking vessels.

The meteorological and hydrographic records compiled by the scientists in their vigil through the arctic night are expected to aid Russia in plans for regular trans-polar flights from Russia to the United States.

Relief Bill Pushed

SENATE leaders expected to put through, with little delay, the $250,000,000 emergency relief appropriation bill. The house approved the measure by a topheavy vote of 352 to 23. All efforts to make major changes in the measure were overridden. Only one amendment, barring relief to aliens temporarily in this country, was authorized.

The Works Progress administration, which has on hand about $490,000,000 of its regular $1,500,000,000 appropriation, will administer the additional relief fund. The WPA has reported to congress that the money will keep at least 2,000,000 persons on the relief rolls until June 30.

GENERAL ELECTRIC company signed a one-year contract affecting 30,000 of its employees making the United Electrical Radio and Machine Workers of America, a C. I. O. affiliate, the sole bargaining agent in six of its plants. Employees of other plants are to be offered the same contract.

The agreement bars both a closed shop and company unions; provides a procedure for adjusting disputes; stipulates the use of an impartial umpire; outlaws strikes and lockouts, and provides for the use of company bulletin boards by the union.

Army Planes' Great Flight

SIX bombing planes of the United States army air corps successfully completed an epochal mass flight of 6,000 miles from Miami, Fla., to Buenos Aires. The only intermediate stop was at Lima, Peru. From there the bombers roared over the snow-capped Andes and landed at the Argentine capital, where thousands cheered the aviators. The planes carried 48 men besides the flight commander, Lieut. Col. Robert Olds.

Earle Wants Toga

GOV. GEORGE H. EARLE of Pennsylvania announced his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for United States senator, standing on his record as governor and continued support of the Roosevelt administration.

"If elected a member of the senate, I shall continue my services on behalf of the principles which have marked the Roosevelt administration and my own administration in Harrisburg," Earle said.

Wiping Off RFC Debt

WITHOUT debate the senate approved a house bill writing off more than $2,300,000,000 in Reconstruction Finance corporation debts to the treasury. Senator Byrd of Virginia said the legislation marked a "return to honest bookkeeping on the part of the federal government." He explained that the RFC, which obtained all its funds from the treasury, had listed among its assets about two and a half billion dollars it had advanced for relief and expenditures in various government agencies.

Jones Urges Tax Revision

JESSE JONES, the usually level headed chairman of the Reconstruction Finance corporation, conferred with treasury officials and urged them to do what they could to hasten congressional action on tax revision. He told Undersecretary Roswell Magill that the whole country was waiting impatiently for action on promised modification of the undistributed profits and capital gains taxes.

Jesse Jones

Jones indicated a belief that the bill, which is still in the hands of the house ways and means committee, was being held up by opposition to a provision retaining a stiff tax on undistributed profits of corporations owned by a few persons.

Coordinated Transportation Breaks Rail and Bus Deadlock in Emergency

Santa Fe Combines Rail, Bus and Truck Facilities to Move Marooned Railroad Passengers

LOS ANGELES, Mar. 8—Railroad passengers, baggage and mail service, disrupted since last Tuesday by the severest storm in the history of California, moved on a coordinated rail-bus schedule yesterday over lines of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Railway. Floods, destroying numerous bridges and fills, also washed out miles of right of way and wire communication, paralyzing rail facilities in the storm area.

Coordinating rail, bus and truck facilities, the Santa Fe yesterday broke the deadlock, moving approximately 700 passengers and their baggage between Barstow and Los Angeles by bus and truck.

El Cajon pass, railroad gateway to Southern California, blocked by washouts and mountains of debris, necessitated a circuitous route across the desert from Barstow via Mojave to Los Angeles the only route open.

"The practicability of coordinated rail-bus service has been well demonstrated in this emergency," said Jas. B. Duffy, assistant passenger traffic manager of the Santa Fe system today. "Santa Fe passengers, their baggage and United States mail will move out of Los Angeles on time by bus and truck to Barstow via Mojave where they will be entrained for eastern points. Schedules will be maintained."

PROCEEDINGS OF THE COUNTY DEMOCRATIC CENTRAL COMMITTEE

roll call and routine reports over, the letter from Senator McAdoo was read. In it he said he had written Secretary Garaventa on November 19, specifically requesting him to get in touch with State Chairman Clifford C. Anglim relative to the re-appointment of the postmasters in Richmond and in Oleum.

The senator's letter to Mr. Garaventa continued: "After waiting more than six weeks for a reply from you, and receiving none, I naturally recommended the re-appointment of Postmaster Thomas as it is the custom to ask for non-competitive civil service examinations for those postmasters whose records have been excellent." (Another letter to the committee from the U. S. Postoffice Department stated that Senator McAdoo made the final recommendation to the President for all postmaster appointments in the 6thCong. Dist. That the non-competitive examination has been given to Mr. Thomas. He has passed, so what has all the shouting been about?

In no uncertain terms Senator McAdoo made clear his displeasure at Garaventa's not having answered, or even acknowledged, his letter but had instead engendered confusion, dissenion, and petty bickering among the members of the committee; and that ridicule had been heaped upon the party by the present Contra Costa Democratic Central Committee.

Contrary to the general report in the Republican newspapers, Senator McAdoo did not, to my knowledge, make the statement that Democratic success in this county was at all jeopardized.

It seems, however, that by their own actions the dictatorial contingent, which is practically limited to he Sanderson-McGimsey-Mulcahy-Willis & Garaventa combine which set out to demand and dictate to all of the national figures of the Democratic party, has ended by earning the scolding that Senator McAdoo administered in his letter.

This week I had fully expected to write a full and complete account of the proceedings of the county committee because a few good resolutions but—when I think of the gross discourtesy offered Senator McAdoo, State Chairman Anglim, and other national figures,—in the name of the committee—I can only hope that the Democratic voters of this county will have the full and complete picture, and vote to elect or defeat the members of the present committee, including myself, on the record.

The primary date is August 30th of this year.

Linscheid Withdraws from Water Board Race

Democrats of Eastern Contra Costa County who had hoped for an opportunity to vote for a registered Democrat in the election this year of the Central Valley Water District were sorely disappointed when Arnold Linscheid, Democrat, of Pittsburg, withdrew his name from the ballot last week "in the interest of harmony."

Left in the race, after Mr. Linscheid's withdrawal are Anthony Crafton, Republican, farm leader; Grant Burton, chairman of the Republican County Central Committee; and J. E. Holmblad, Martinez, registered in '36 as a Non-Partisan. So it's a bit hard for us to understand just what our good personal friend means by "harmony."

While the office is non-partisan and non-salaried, we notice that the Republicans never overlook these key positions while the Democratic committee is trying to raise hell in their own party.

One thing is certain: As long as the Democratic county committee spends all its time making news for the Republican papers to the detriment of our own party, instead of seeing that candidates file, and run, for the powerful offices the Republicans never overlook, it will be a long time before the New Deal comes to Contra Costa County politics.

UNCLE SAM is the producer of "The River," regarded by many as the greatest of current motion pictures, and one of the greatest motion pictures of all time. Specifically, "The River" was produced for the Farm Security administration by Pare Lorentz, a former New York film reviewer, who for the past two years has been turning down big-money offers from Hollywood in favor of working for the government.

"This is the story of the Mississippi, where it comes from, where it goes, what it has meant to us, and what it has cost us," the beautiful voice of Thomas Chalmers intones as the picture starts. From then on in magnificently photographed scenes we are shown an epic. The Mississippi rising in rebellion is far more stirring and majestic than all the actors you have ever seen in imaginary crises.

Months ago David Selznick and Paulette Goddard, who sometimes answers to the name of Mrs. Charles Chaplin, indulged in a bitter argument. Friends reported that Paulette expected to play the role of Scarlett O'Hara in "Gone With the Wind," Mr. Selznick replied crisply that she was not even being considered for it, and Paulette was so upset she said she wouldn't play it even if he begged her to. Now they have patched up their troubles, she has signed a contract and both admit that if her tests are satisfactory she'll play the role.

Norma Shearer has never forgotten the stars whose pictures thrilled her when she was just getting started in pictures fifteen years ago. She gave the names of some fifty players to the casting director of her "Marie Antoinette" and asked that they should be given roles. It was hard to locate many of them, for in recent years hard luck, poverty, and despondency had dogged their footsteps, but now they are all happily at work.

Peter Lorre, the sinister "Mr. Moto" of Twentieth Century-Fox films is never the victim of practical jokes in Hollywood. Folks out there know he always strikes back. When he was leaving London for America, his director had a big dray horse delivered to him at the last minute as a parting gift. Mr. Lorre sent the horse to a friend's farm, then arranged to have three hundred singing canaries delivered to the director at three in the morning.

ODDS AND ENDS—Between scenes of "Ireland in the Sky" the cast serenaded Toby Doolan with "Nice Work if You Can Get It" because for two days he did nothing but lie still on the floor while a cinema coroner and his assistants pronounced Doolan dead . . . Warner Brothers are going to feature Olivia de Havilland and Anita Louise in "Studio Club" which they hope will be as great a picture as R K O's "Stage Door" . . . HOW to SEW

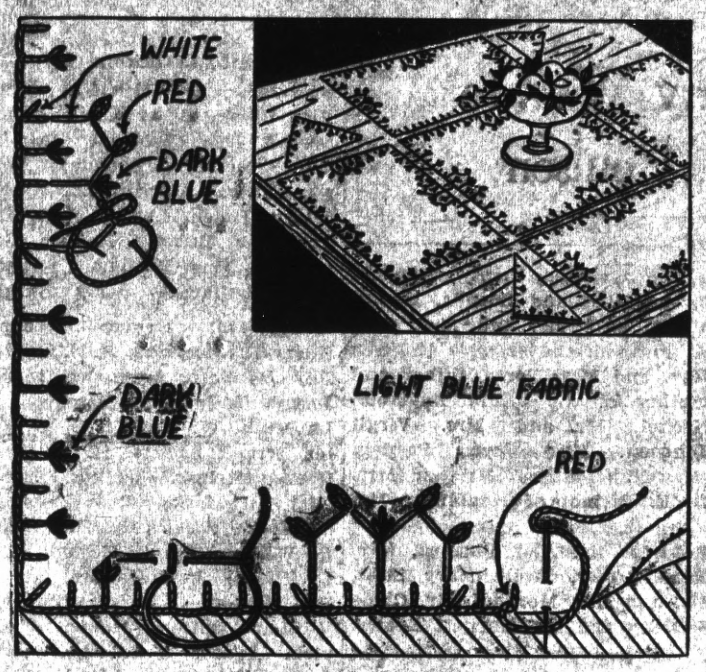
By RUTH WYETH SPEARS



A Colorful Luncheon Set

WE HAVE been hearing a good deal about American handcrafts lately. Of course, quilts have always been important among our needlework handcrafts. So many readers have written asking me for more of the old fashioned embroidery stitches that were used in making crazy patchwork that I have collected dozens and dozens of these quaint stitches from old quilts.

This gay little double house effect built upon blanket stitches with chain stitches flaunting from all gables was the invention of someone's great-grandmother and I couldn't resist using it for a luncheon set of light blue linen. It originally adorned a light blue satin patch in a quilt and all the other colors indicated here in the sketch are the original colors.

All the strands of six-strand mercerized embroidery thread were used for the luncheon set. The mats were hemmed first and then the blanket stitches were taken through the hems to make a firm edge as shown at the lower right. All the other stitches used are clearly illustrated. Just the edge stitches without the little houses were used for the napkins. Many more authentic old patchwork stitches are illustrated in a new leaflet which is free upon request with the booklet offered below.

Have you a copy of Mrs. Spears' new book SEWING? It contains forty-eight pages of step-by-step directions for making slip-covers and dressing tables; curtains for every type of room; lampshades, rugs and other useful articles for the home. Copy will be sent postpaid, upon receipt of 25 cents (coins preferred). Address Mrs. Spears, 210 South Desplaines St., Chicago, Ill.

New Suits Stress Color Alliance

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

MORE than ever the spring fashion picture is going strong for suits. Somewhere in the current collections "your suit" is holding forth, waiting only for you to come and get it. Which is by way of telling you that the styling of suit costumes is so diversified this season you can depend upon being perfectly "suited" in that the fashions for spring and summer 1938 include models typed to every individuality.

Suits that lead in the style parade come out definitely in favor of color. Which is most significant news and should be kept in mind when choosing the new spring outfit. Even more newsy is the fact that many of the smartest suit costumes favor two colors rather than one. They highlight, for instance, such intriguing combinations as raspberry and navy, maple or brown and beige gold color with black, or they contrast a pale blue woolen with red fox trim and so on.

It's going to be tremendously interesting to go suit hunting this spring for just such stunning models as here pictured are typical of what you will be shown throughout your quest in the better shops and departments. The three-piece costume suit to the left makes two-color its theme in a dramatic styling of black nubby wool combined with the same wool weave in the striking gold color that is so new and so fashionable just now. Notice how intriguingly the patch pockets are decorated with black in conventional design. The black breton hat worn with this suit is the bowl type that is so favored at present.

A message of utmost importance as told by the Style Creators in Chicago in the wholesale district via an illuminating prevue of spring and summer fashions is the favor expressed for suits tailored of pastel woolens, such as grayish blues and the once old-fashioned and now new-fashioned "old rose," and a list of soft lovely muted shades might be cited. Seen to the right in the picture is a charming two-piece costume suit tailored of fine wool fabric in a beguiling light blue. The fur is red fox. You'll love the color combination. The dress has cutout embroidery on the blouse.

For the new suits the dominant silhouette is square shouldered, straight and decidedly boxy in line. This trend is seen in dressy as well as casual models, the chief distinction being a matter of fabrics and ornamental details. Quilting, embroidery and fur trimming distinguish costumes in the dressy category while contrasting appliques and novelty fabrics highlight the casual types. Of greater prominence than in any recent season is the tuxedo front employed on innumerable garments from full length coats to jackets ending at the hip.

Many suits are of fabrics that favor pencil stripes, checks small or large, lightweight tweeds that are nubbed or flecked, some in gay plaids, others herringbone or diagonals and there's a list of colorful airy homespuns shown.

From the signs that tell it's a navy spring. With navy in the lead a promenade of colors follows that include many not seen for years such as forget-me-not blue, ashes of roses, purple, moss pink, lilac, fuchsia and so on. Other colors on their second wind of popularity include aqua, gold, chartreuse, flag blue, bright red, also some dubonnet red.

TRAILER CLOTHES NEW FASHION THEME

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

Now that that there is an increasing enthusiasm shown for trailer travel, a new phase of fashion challenges the creative genius of designers. Here's a tip on the latest or shall we say earliest in trailer outfits as displayed at the spring style revue recently presented at the Merchandise Mart in Chicago. Practical and at the same time very attractive mattress ticking denim was the wise fabric choice for this utility outfit. The overalls with zipper in front are backless above the waist, and there is a little boxy jacket to complete the ensemble. It's a perfect outfit to wear when you go trailering.

Concealed Heels

Concealed heels are one of the latest contrivances for adding inches to the size of small women, and men as well. Built snugly into the inside of the shoe, they provide the desired height without affecting the outer contours in any way.

An Heirloom Bedspread

Pattern 5908.

Here's an heirloom popcorn bedspread that's going to lend richness to your bedroom—just see how effectively that striking popcorn motif is set off by the lacy mesh background. It's fascinating work—crocheting the individual squares of durable string and once you've learned one you won't want to stop until all the squares are finished and joined into a spread of unusual beauty. In pattern 5908 you will find instructions for making the square shown; an illustration of it and of the stitches used; material requirements; a photograph of the square.

To obtain this pattern send 15 cents in stamps or coins (coins preferred) to The Sewing Circle, Household Arts Dept., 259 W. 14th St., New York, N. Y.

What Is Proper Use of Furniture Polish?

In a recent investigation, it was proven that many, many homemakers use furniture polish incorrectly—pouring it on a dry cloth, for application to the furniture! This is a gross waste of the housewife's time, energy and her polish! And the latter is usually blamed. We refer, of course, to oil polish—for this type is best to clean, beautify and preserve the furniture. The best oil polish is not greasy, because it's made with a fine, light oil base. The polish should be applied on a damp cloth—thoroughly moistened with water, then wrung out. Saturate this cloth with the polish—spread on—and rub lightly. The "wet" of the cloth smoothly distributes the polish—and the finish absorbs, receives it evenly! This correct procedure takes the "labor" out of polishing — and requires far less tiresome rubbing! A dry cloth is then used to easily work up the glow, which is even and uniform—the desired effect! This—and only this—is the proper way to use a good oil polish!

Nowadays a girl has to work like a horse to get a groom.

Then or Never

"Do you think I'm too young to marry, Aunt?" asked the girl.

ANOTHER VICTIM

"He's such an imposing chap!"

"Always so; but on whom was he imposing when you saw him, may I ask?"

Yes, That's It

Prospective Governess—I'm not interested in the position. I didn't realize you had thirteen children.

Mistress—Don't tell me you're superstitious.

No Holding Him Back

Mike—How on earth did Murphy win that cross-country race? He was ready to give up when I saw him.

Pat—Oh, he sat down to rest on a wasp's nest.

Good Guess

"That new man Charlie we've got on the pumps is certainly a live wire," said the manager of the gasoline station.

"Really?"

"Yes, a motorist drove up just now and shouted, 'Dionne Quintuplets!' and Charlie gave him five gals."

THE CAULIFLOWER COLYUM
By Frankie Neil
Former Bantamweight Champion of the World

Well, now that the heavy-wt. champion has demonstrated that he must have another tune-up; and that Schmeling must have a tune-up,too, what is the dear public to do? The answer is—Take it—and like it! That's all.

You know as well as I that champions differ from other boxers by only a trifle. Lot of times the manager is responsible: by lining up the opponents in their proper order. And that is all right until one gets to be champion.

When that happens we maintain that champions should act like champions. They receive enough money for every fight to keep the Old Bad Wolf away and when they fight it should be for the berries. No champion should have palookas tarown at him.

Only real contenders should be allowed to fight the champ: and the champion should only be allowed to fight real contenders. Make an even sporting bet for everyone, and elevate the boxing game by creating more interest.

Why not put Louis and Mann on again—and let the proceeds go to charity.

Championship matches ought always to be held on Friday—and then if there is anything fishy about them, they do not smell so bad!

It only takes a few bum ones to put the game taboo. But of all skeptical people, the sporting fraternity, in their way, are the ones that Barnum talked about one being born every minute: and it takes a building to fall on them before they tumble.

Now, in the many Championship fights of the past—absolutely on the up-and-up, like the Dempsey-Willard, Corbett-Jeffries, Nelson-Wolgast (in Point Richmond), and others the fans DID get a run for their money. Such contests draw real gates as they properly should.

It stands to reason that the only logical fight for Louis or Schmeling is a Louis vs. Schmeling encounter. Until that happens, folks can figure on so much hokum.

After that one, the boys could go out and take on some of the exhibition bouts.

What do YOU think?

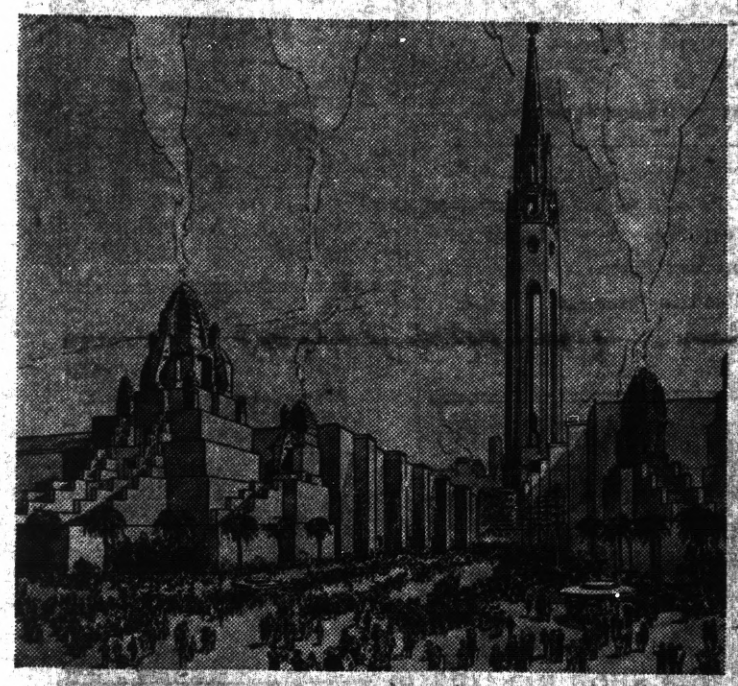
Alpine Troops Guard Brenner Pass

The splendor of the Alpine beauty silhouettes these guardians of Italy's frontier in the famous Brenner pass which leads to Austria. These troops were demonstrating Il Duce's might to impress on Austria that Italy backed up Germany in Hitler's recent coup which brought Nazi ministers into the Austrian cabin.

Here's Rugged Road to Beauty

An applicant for the course at the free public beauty clinic recently opened in a neighborhood settlement in New York city is being measured before she starts on the rugged road to beauty. Experts tell the ladies where the avoirdupois should come off and how to take it off. If necessary, they'll instruct how to put poundage on, but most clients are concerned with shedding it.

Portals of Pacific Exposition



Main entrance gates of the 1939 Golden Gate International exposition on Treasure island in San Francisco bay where millions are expected to enter next year are shown in this sketch by Artist Louis Rotge. Towering above the exposition is the 400-foot Tower of the Sun.

Flee Homes in Flood Areas of Middle West

Floods in middle western states caused hundreds of persons to desert their homes when rivers overflowed their banks, as ice formations melted following spring-like rains. Above, flood victims near Detroit are being removed from their homes after the River Rouge rose to flood stage.

AIR PIONEER

Vilhjalmur Stefansson, noted scientist and explorer who recently predicted that the world's air routes will soon be laid out in straight lines instead of the present curves. Pointing to the ultimate necessity of flying directly northward from the United States to Paris, he said that such a route would save at least 1,000 miles from the present course.

Braille Cook Book for Blind

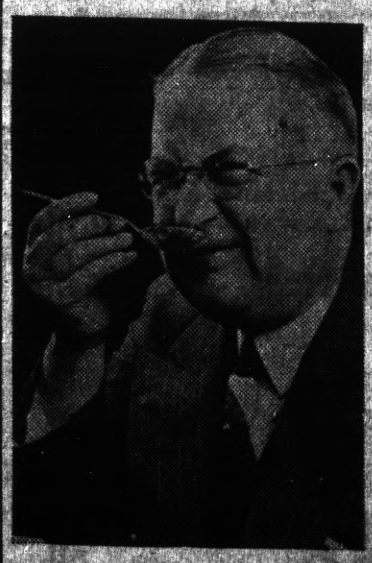
TEA TESTER



Among the many tea testers assembled by Uncle Sam in New York recently was Robert Lewis. Mr. Lewis sampled many brands of tea which will determine the standards for 20,000,000,000 cups of the beverage to be consumed by Americans in 1939. One of them, at least, didn't make a hit with Mr. Lewis. It's the one he is shown holding—and disliking.

HARMONY OF BODY MIND AND SPIRIT

By Taniz Tanagra

THE ART OF FLOWER ARRANGEMENT

Ike-bana, the Art of flower arrangement, has definite value for we westerners. It is more than just a pleasing and artistic arrangement . . there is a spiritual significance and it takes a proper spirit to work out the true beauty of these arrangements.

The three principals of Heaven, Man and Earth are used in every arrangement . . additional branches or sprays are merely supports to these main principals.

One bears in mind the following rules when dealing with Ike-bana: your arrangement must represent a living plant, not cut flowers . . suggest the season of the year . . suggest the nature of the plant by proper use of buds, open flowers, and withered leaves . . all branches and stems must be kept together for at least four inches above the surface of the water to form a parent stalk. This strength and unity at the base is neccessary to give the effect of a living plant . . branches and leaves never cross each other in an arrangement . . uneven numbers of flowers or branches are used, never even. Balance and beauty of line without repitition must be the distinguishing feature in these arrangements.

Every arrangement . . must be made in the style of either IN or YO,—IN being the feminine and YO, the masculine.

In suggesting the seasons, the use of young green leaves in abundance with a full or spreading arrangement is used for summer. For Autumn, the harvest time can be suggested by using yellow or golden leaves less full with fewer spray . . . suggesting the serenity and peace of this season. In winter arrange your flowers with few curves, your sprays and branches more flat . . each line must stand out clear cut as the branches of a tree in winter. In the spring let your arrangement be loose and gay.

There are many odd and fanciful receptacles for your arrangements . . let yours be in keeping with your home and the flowers you expect to use.

I have been asked by some of my readers to give these few remarks on this Art . . if it does arouse an interest I feel sure further study will reward you as anything which lends to our life, beauty and finer feeling or appreciation means an inner as well as outer UPLIFT IN SPIRIT.

New Boy's Choir Here

The boy's choir of Trinity Episcopal Church is now being trained by Mr. Torbert Olsen. Any boy between the ages of 10 and 16 who desires to sing in the choir may join by telephoning Richmond-691-W. Already a class of seven are practising Wednesday afternoons after the school hours and are making fine progress. There is, in the opinion of many, no music comparable to the clear, fresh voices found in a good boy's choir.

Bobcat Is Destructive

The bobcat preys upon antelope, deer and other game animals, especially the fawns, and on wild turkeys, quail and other ground-nesting birds. It has been known to be exceedingly destructive to domestic live stock, especially to sheep during the lambing season, to pigs, goats, calves and poultry.

Point Druid's Circle

The Point Circle of Druids under the chairmanship of District Deputy Louise Novarini held a pillow slip whist in the Richmond Clubhouse on Monday night.

Those holding high scores: Mrs. C. M. Cohea, Dave Kelln, C. M. Cohea and Mrs. Nancy McCrath. The door prize was drawn, Mr. Kelln being the lucky winner.

After the games were over refreshments were served by Miss Novarini, Mrs. P. Novarini and Mrs. Charles Ceridono.

Work and Growth

Work is the only means of growth. Instead of being a curse, as some would have us believe, work is a means of measureless good. Not to work is to keep always an undeveloped hand, or heart, or brain. The things which work may achieve are not half so important as that which work does in us.

of the Richmond Schools. Dr. Poulsen completed his studies at the University of California, and opened a modern optometrist's office in connection with his father's jewelry store, over a year ago. The elder Mr. Poulsen is one of the pioneer and leading jewelers of this vicinity.

The best wishes of the Progress are joined to those of the many friends of the couple for their future success.

Mrs. T. T. Cramer entertained Mrs. Robert DeShields of Antioch at her home on Martina street last week.

Point Chapter

Thursday night's meeting of the Point Chapter, Order of the Eastern Star, was the occasion of the official visit of the Deputy Grand Matron Eulabelle Martinson.

Complete work of the order was exemplified with Worthy Matron Ellen Penny in the East and with Philip Lee as Worthy Patron.

Mrs. Elizabeth Diffen served as general chairman of the banquet held in the lower hall after the ritualistic work was completed.

London has always been the workshop of Great Britain's literary lights. There toiled Shakespeare, Chaucer, Coleridge, Defoe, Dickens, Dryden, Gibbon, Goldsmith, Johnson, Keats, Lovelace, Marlowe, Milton, Raleigh, Shelley, Sheridan, Thackeray and scores of the men and women who built the sturdy foundation of literary England. Many of the houses connected with the lives of these great writers still stand.

Peruvian Balsams in Salvador

Originally a popular remedy for healing wounds Balsam of Peru is used also as a perfume base. Because Spain was little concerned about the geography of her New World treasure chest, everything exotic was thought to come from Peru. Hence the name of a product found almost exclusively in Salvador. In a special area set aside for the graceful balsam tree, tappers cut into the bark, stimulate the sap with torches, and attach cloths to the cuts to catch the flow of balsam. When the balsam has been boiled out of the cloths, it is clarified by evaporation and packed into metal cases for shipment.

Where Snails Live

Snails live, in summertime, in open woodlands and are found under rocks and dead logs. In the summer they are usually a dull pinkish brown and are vegetarians, for the most part. They haunt the same sort of shadowy, cool open woods that the thrushes do, and hundreds of them are eaten by thrushes, who pick the little tenants out of their front doors and swallow them, leaving the shells to tell the story.

Watches Once Small Clocks

Watches originally were small clocks and were worn hung from the girdle because they were too large for the pocket.

Antlers Not Horns

Antlers of deer, moose and elk are not horns, but are solid, bony structures, shed and regrown annually.

The old Wilson family home on Scenic avenue has been sold to Mr. and Mrs. Charles Peebles who will make the future home there. They were former residents of the Point and are now returning to this community. In recent years they have lived in San Francisco.

Where Perfumes Come From

Many plants and fruits furnish materials for perfumes. Secretions of four animals, the sperm whale, beaver, musk ox and civet cat are also used.
